

Skunkworks ... a place where problems are resolved and projects developed by a relatively small and loosely structured group of people primarily for the sake of radical innovation and the sheer enjoyment of analysis and experimentation ...

Got a glitchy transmitter ... or a receiver that doesn't listen ... or servos that won't respond ... or maybe the repair of damaged plane too daunting to contemplate. "Nothing is so badly broken that there isn't a solution out there somewhere..." At the Skunkworks you will find a group of individuals just like yourself - there to provide some timely advice if warranted, or offer a willing hand when needed, or just be a place to discuss planes with similarly minded fly-guys. Sometimes we build ... sometimes we mend ... and sometimes we just talk. We meet every Tuesday evening at about 1900 hours in Heinz FISCHER's garage – off the alley behind 1212 – 24th Ave in Coaldale. Many R/C aircraft – both new and re-furbished - have spent time 'in the works', and the occasional bent ego and the loss of self-confidence has found solace here. Everyone is welcome!
